77 Greenfield Road, London E1 1EJ

Overall outcome

The school meets all of the independent school standards that were checked during this inspection

Main inspection findings

Part 1. Quality of education provided

Paragraph 2(1), 2(1)(a), 2(1)(b)(i) and 2(2)(b)

- At the time of the last inspection, schemes of work were of varying quality and did not take into account pupils' different starting points. Also, these schemes did not always detail strategies to develop pupils' literacy and numeracy skills across all subjects. In its action plan, the school indicated that it intended to revise all subject plans to cater for at least three levels of ability and to signpost the development of literacy and numeracy in other subjects. The action plan also stated that leaders would provide additional training for staff in lesson planning and would strengthen monitoring procedures, in order to improve consistency. As a result of implementing the school's action plan, schemes of work have been rewritten and now meet requirements. In addition, the library has been restocked with appropriate fiction and reference books to encourage boys to read for pleasure and to broaden their interest in reading. The school's own data shows that pupils' progress is speeding up with the large majority of Year 11 pupils achieving their targets in 2016.
- The requirements for this paragraph are now met.

Paragraph 2(2)(h) and 2(2)(i)

- The inspection in October 2014 found that pupils were not achieving as well as they should in a range of subjects. As a result, this limited their opportunities when applying for college courses. In its action plan, the school indicated that it intended to run booster and intervention classes for pupils. Also, teachers would provide practice tests in a number of subjects, in order to maximise pupils' examination success. As a result of implementing the action plan, in 2015 all but one pupil proceeded to higher education. In 2016, all Year 11 pupils have been offered a college place. Pupils have gone on to study a range of courses including business and accounting, sports science, biology, chemistry, mathematics and physics. In addition, all key stage 4 pupils take part in the Duke of Edinburgh's Award scheme and in 2016 all pupils achieved the bronze award. This academic year, all pupils in Years 10 and 11 are commencing their silver award to enable them to be well prepared for the next stage of their education and life in British society.
- The requirements for this paragraph are now met.

Paragraph 3, 3(a), 3(d) and 3(g)

The inspection in October 2014 identified that teachers' planning was weak because it did not challenge or support pupils well enough to develop a range of skills in reading, writing and mathematics. In its action plan, the school indicated that lesson plans would be submitted to senior leaders for approval. In addition, senior leaders would provide feedback and further training as required, in order to ensure that teachers plan stimulating activities so that pupils are fully engaged in their learning in order to make good progress. As a result of implementing these aspects of the action plan, the headteacher now holds regular discussions with teachers about their lesson planning. Records are kept and targets set to ensure that staff are held to account for the quality of their teaching and pupils' progress. The school's monitoring of teaching indicates that teachers are using prior attainment data and assessment information to plan their lessons, so that activities are set at the correct level for pupils' abilities.

- During the inspection the inspector, along with the headteacher, visited five classes and toured the school premises. Pupils were observed taking part in a range of creative and academic work that included drama, English, mathematics, personal, social, health and economic (PSHE) education, and science. An appropriate range of resources and materials were available for the different activities to enable pupils to achieve well.
- In partnership with an independent company, the headteacher has developed a bespoke assessment system to meet the needs of the pupils at the school. In addition to providing information for staff, the new assessment system produces a very clear and helpful report to parents and carers regarding the progress, attendance and behaviour of their children. The school has recently introduced a reading age test in order to pinpoint more accurately any weaknesses in pupils' reading so that support can be swiftly provided.
- The school meets all the requirements for this part.

Part 6. Provision of information

Paragraph 32(1), 32(1)(b) and 32(3)(e)

- At the time of the previous inspection, the school did not publish sufficiently detailed information about the pupils' academic performance on its website. As a result, parents were not able to fully assess how effective the school was. Full and detailed information about the school's academic performance is now published on the website. In addition, parents receive reports on their children's academic progress three times a year.
- Leaders have ensured that all the required policies, including the safeguarding and child protection policy reflects the Secretary of State's most recent guidance, 'Keeping children safe in education' (September 2016), are published on the school's website.
- The school's website meets statutory requirements.
- The school meets all the requirements for this part.

Part 8. Quality of leadership in and management of schools

Paragraph 34(1), 34(1)(a) and 34(1)(b)

- Leaders have been successful in addressing the remaining unmet parts of the standards, highlighted at the last progress monitoring inspection.
- Senior staff provided the inspector with a range of evidence to show the school's regular and effective monitoring of the quality of teaching, and pupils' learning and progress.
- The proprietor, headteacher and senior staff have ensured that all aspects relating to the standards concerning the quality of education provided and the provision of information, are now met. As a result, all the independent school standards are now met.

Compliance with regulatory requirements

The school meets the requirements of the schedule to the Education (Independent School Standards) Regulations 2014 ('the independent school standards') and associated requirements that were checked during this inspection. This included the standards and requirements that the school was judged to not comply with at the previous inspection.
